Sunday Readings

First Reading: (Sirach 27:30, 28:7) Mercy and forgiveness should be at the heart of the Christian life. Yet, as today's First Reading wisely reminds us, often we cherish our wrath, nourish our anger, and refuse mercy to those who have done us wrong.

Second Reading: (Romans 14:7-9) as Paul reminds us in today's Epistle, we are the Lord's. Each of us has been purchased by the blood of Christ shed for us on the Cross (see Revelation 5:9).

Gospel: (Matthew 18:21-35) Jesus, too, strikes close to home in today's Gospel with His realistic portrayal of the wicked servant who won't forgive a fellow servant's debt, even though his own slate has just been wiped clean by their master.

FORGIVEN: TOO POOR TO PAY

When the books of a certain Scottish doctor were examined after his death, it was found that a number of accounts were crossed through with a note: "Forgiven too poor to pay." But the physician's wife later decided that these accounts must be paid in full and she proceeded to sue for money. When the case came to court the judge asked but one question. Is this your husband's handwriting? When she replied that it was he responded: "There is no court in the land that can obtain a debt once the word forgiven has been written."

And that is the good news that the Gospel offers us this morning. God's attitude is not "I'll forgive but I won't forget," but rather, "Forgiven, Forgotten Forever." Across our debt has been written the words, "Forgiven too poor to pay." Once a debt has been cancelled there is no one who can collect on it. God wipes it out of his mind. Oh, if we could only do that. If we could forgive others like that; If we could forgive ourselves like that.

St. Matthew

Humanly speaking, none of us would have given a chance to be called by Jesus Christ to Levi, who agreed to perform such a social role, a tax collector for the Roman occupier. In the eyes of the people of that time, he and all others like him were considered sinners, and for a double reason: first he was a collaborator with the occupier of the Chosen People, the Roman Empire, and secondly, he was treated as a thief, because almost every one of them collected higher taxes, of which, according to Roman law, he left for himself a large part as salary. But Jesus Christ called him because he takes into account more than just the external circumstances of life. First of all, he looks at what is hidden and accomplished in the depths of man's heart. Certainly, he also saw in Levi-Matthew much good, which he wanted to awaken and direct for the good of the future kingdom that he was establishing. In this mystery of Matthew's apostolic vocation, there is a great truth that Jesus Christ loves every man and sees at least a little bit of the good that he wishes to develop in collaboration with that man in order to give a deeper meaning to his life. In the same way, Jesus Christ looks at each and every one of us. So, Jesus, following the path of realizing the salvific Redemption, notices Levi – Matthew, he looked at him. and, calling to live in a deeper relationship. Matthew breaks away and leaves his previous lifestyle and follow Jesus. The life of each and every one of us is similar, because Jesus Christ, looks into our hearts, loving us, even when we are touched by human weaknesses. He wants to fill us with the fruits of the Redemption, he invites us to friendship with himself, in which he wants to give meaning and depth to our lives, and he sends us to be tellers of faith to our loved ones, for whom we live or whom he has placed on our path. Let us ask St Matthew to obtain for us the grace to welcome Jesus Christ into our lives, who constantly approaches us and invites us to live the faith authentically, that is, to friendship with one another and to be apostles in our environments.

Attributes:

Book:

Saint Matthew, the Apostle and Evangelist, is most often depicted with a book. As with the other evangelists, artists sometimes show him at the time of writing. Almost always the book of the saint, symbolizing his Gospel.

Angel:

Each of the four Evangelists has its own symbol: John the eagle, Mark the lion, Luke the bull, and Matthew the angel. The winged human figure refers to the beginning of the Gospel of St. Matthew. After presenting the genealogy of Jesus, he describes the appearance of the angel to Saint Joseph (Mt 1:20).

Sword:

Little is known about the life of St. Matthew. According to tradition, he suffered a martyr's death. Perhaps he was beheaded by the sword. That is why he is sometimes depicted with a sword in his hand. Since it is not known for sure whether the murder weapon was a sword, sometimes there are images of a saint with an ax, a spear or a halberd.
